We all know our Fresno mayor is a Republican and is now running as such for a statewide office. Suddenly, she needs a former communications director of the state Republican Party as her media spokesman? How convenient, just when she needs to get out the "truth" and, of course, he says he will have nothing to do with her campaign for state controller. Oh sure.

I really think Mayor Swearingin opened herself up for more criticism on this appointment. If the mayor truly needs a Republican propagandist to handle her campaign, she should hire one at her own expense.
