

Growth in U.S. Home Prices Moderates

By Kathleen
Madigan

Yearly growth in home prices across the U.S. continued to moderate early in the fourth quarter, suggesting the housing market may be settling into a more sustainable recovery.

Prices nationwide increased 4.6% in the year ended in October, according to the Standard & Poor's/Case-Shiller home-price report released Tuesday. That was down from 4.8% in September and a far cry from the 10%-plus gains in the first quarter. A 20-city...

- Copyright ©2015 Dow Jones & Company, Inc. All Rights Reserved.

©2015 Dow Jones & Company, Inc. All Rights Reserved.