

Fresno to host development code community meetings

Published on 05/07/2015 - 1:51 pm

Written by Business Journal staff

0 Comments

The City of Fresno announced it will host two informational community workshops for the public to learn more about the draft Development Code.

The Development Code is an essential tool for implementing the new General Plan that was adopted by the city council in December, according to a City of Fresno news release.

"The old code was out-of-date, fragmented, and hard to understand," said Jennifer Clark, director of Development and Resource Management, in a statement. "Tastes and needs have changed over the past 50 years, and we've applied a new vision to the code to meet today's business plans. We hope the public will take advantage of these public meetings to get a better understanding of the direction and detail in this draft Development Code."

Here are the details on next week's meetings:

May 12

Hoover High School Cafeteria

5550 N. First St.

5:30-7p.m.

May 13

Yokomi Elementary School

2323 E. McKenzie Ave.

5:30-7 p.m.

The draft Development Code can be downloaded here.

inShare